

The privatizing of the postal Service is the obvious direction for all crown corporations. The problem is keeping the governments fingers out of the regulation of the competition. Never have so many politicians and civil servants had so much to say, with so little ability to say it, as in Canada.

Robert Lavallee
Nova Scotia